Rossville Intermediate Village

The Rossville Consolidated School District opened its doors during the late summer days of August for the year 1966-67. The sound of our cheerfully excited voices filled the halls, and our youthful curiosity wondered about the coming year. To some of us the surroundings were new, and there were new teachers, new organizations and sponsors, all arranged to advance us in our educational program. Our studies, extra-curricular activities, our athletics, and our every-day school life challenged the meaning of our purpose here. As the year progressed we became aware of new knowledge, had new ideas, became aware of challenging differences and personalities, all helping to form our FOUNDATION FOR TOMORROW.

In Memory of
Thomas Lee Knapp

February 25, 1949--January 9, 1967
Member of the Senior Class

When dear friends leave us for a home
That's fairer far than this
Why should we droop with tear-stained face
Forgetful of their bliss?

Dear friends, sweet friends, the loved, not lost,
Who've passed from earthly pain,
We bow our hearts to bear our loss
And praise God for our gain.

Mr. F. L. Johnson

We Dedicate

The staff respectfully and proudly dedicates the 1967 LARS to Mr. F. L. Johnson, a teacher for forty-two years, the last ten of which have been devoted to the students of Rossville High School. Mr. Johnson has won our admiration by his outstanding skill and devotion to the profession of teaching as a life-time career. During these years he has taught Latin, Science, Physical Education, and Mathematics with a thorough understanding of the needs of his students. He established the Future Scientists of America Club for those interested in the sciences as a possible career.

Mr. Johnson will be long remembered by his students and the faculty for his contributions to education and for the sincere and devoted help to each student to receive a meaningful education.

To the Class of 1967:

To each of you in this year's graduating class, we extend congratulations.

During the past twelve years you have had many happy and rewarding experiences. Also you have experienced disappointment and grief. From these experiences you have grown mentally and emotionally. Continue to grow and have an awareness, at this commencement time, that throughout life, learning is a continuing process.

We wish much success and a happy future for each of you, and hope that your school has contributed favorably to that future.

The Administrator of Our School

Roger D. Voreis--Principal

Mary Lou Crane, secretary to principal

In these days of an amazing expansion of knowledge, our schools are compelled to provide a well-rounded education for all students. At the same time, each student must realize it becomes his responsibility to develop his own abilities and personality. Currently, many agencies are making efforts to see that all boys and girls are educated. Some of these agencies are the federal government, state government, local government, school boards, churches, as well as parents. All of their efforts together, with that of dedicated teachers and alert, responsible students, gives the greatest promise of developing truly successful and useful members of our American way of life.

The Student Council is the governing body for the students of Rossville High School. The members of the Council are elected to represent their classmates' views on specific proposals. The Student Council strives to cooperate with the administration and faculty to create the best environment for the students. In addition, the Student Council is responsible for scheduling of post-game dances, direction of the basketball homecoming King and Queen, and scheduling of educational convocations.

By decorating and furnishing a Christmas tree, the Student Council shares the meaning of Christmas with all students.

One of the newest services at the high school is loans from an over-five-year magazine collection for term papers and speeches.

Lack of space in our library this year has not lessened the enthusiasm of librarians or borrowers, but we are all anticipating our new library facilities and its space next year.

Courses in government, economics, World History, and U.S. History at Rossville High School are to acquaint the students with the history of the world, their country, and their state. They learn the fundamental structure of our governmental processes and of the economic system of our country, as well as the founding of our country and our state, and the progress each has made.

Mathematics

Mathematics is the language of science. Through the use of new methods in the subject, many important and useful new principles are devised. Students learn that the knowledge gained from these courses is helpful in various kinds of work. As technology increases in the world of today there is a greater demand for people trained in the field of mathematics.

Practicing at the board provides students with valuable drill.

Learning how to do proofs was the hardest task of geometry students.

Language of Science

Experimenting with the growth of bacteria helps students to understand modern science.

Preparing for chemistry and physics classes keeps Mr. Johnson busy using the slide rule to work problems.

With ever-increasing knowledge of the nature of our world and of other planets it becomes almost imperative that the sciences--biology, chemistry, and physics--be studied more generally. Although the sciences are quite technical in some respects, they explain some very common occurrences in our everyday life.

Rossville High School' language courses are aimed to tie language with life so as to stimulate the growth of boys and girls as individual persons, as citizens, as workers, and as members of a social group. Traditional grammar and current usage develop ability to correctly write and speak, as well as to read and listen. Composition to express ones meaning begets order in thinking. Speech to express ideas clearly and precisely is important in a democracy. The reading of literature is directed toward insight into human nature and to develop maturity of thinking. And when Latin students translate Veni, Vidi, Vici--I came, I saw, I conquered --they wish it was that easy.

Commercial

In the commercial courses the Rossville High School students study a comprehensive eight subjects. In typing they learn the many ways typing may be used. Office practice teaches business processes and filing. Business English teaches the basic principles of language used in business correspondence; this includes shorthand for taking dictation. Business mathematics covers problems of taxes, insurance, budgets, and discounts. Law is concerned with the rules covering these problems. Bookkeeping and general business deals with the practice of business transactions. Any one or all of these are of benefit to anyone in business or homemaking.

Bookkeeping students find that running a business includes more than just figuring profits and losses.

Industrial arts teaches boys basic fundamentals of drafting, and the operation of tools and machinery.

Vocational training at Rossville High School provides helpful skills for future living. Girls learn the preparation of wholesome foods, the care of home and family, and dress making. Boys learn skills in areas of industrial arts including wood-working and printing. In agriculture they broaden their knowledge of farm methods and prove their capabilities by competitive judging contests.

Learning homemaking skills prepares girls for future years.

During the course in Physical Education at Ross - ville High School we are taught what physical fitness is and to appreciate that a human body well taken care of will last a life-time. After a strenuous work-out at push-ups a student learns that his "get-up-and-go-has got-up-and-gone." Not withstanding, we were able to demonstrate our fitness in a gymkhana.

Band, Chorus, Music

Music and art are extracurricular activities directed toward finding and developing students' talents in these fields. The music department, under the supervision of the director, has developed the high school, Junior high, and intermediate schools bands, as well as a chorus in the high school and junior high school each. Also, there are music classes in these two schools. A sense of delicate teamwork is necessary here to produce harmony, perhaps more than any other group activity in the entire school.

Art instruction is not limited to drawing; instruction in color, various mediums of composition, and design are used to encourage another kind of harmony.

LARS--Life Around Rossville Schools--is our effort to make a record of the events in Rossville schools during this year and to refresh the memories that may fade in the future years. The staff has possibly put in more voluntary hours of extra work without show than any other extracurricular activity in school. They will feel fully rewarded for this effort if each person gets a little pleasure looking at his friends in pictures, as well as his own, and find this pleasure multiplying in the years to come.

The Rossville High School Chapter of the National Honor Society completes its first year in our school in March. The chapter's members, selected for a high standard of academic achievement, have tried hard to maintain the aims of Leadership, Character, Scholarship, and Service within the school. Social activities included an induction ceremony for new members, and the Sadie Hawkins Dance.

FTA Added to the List of RHS Activities

A student organization, FUTURE TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION, was introduced at Rossville High School this year. The Association, is sponsored by Principal Voreis. Correlated with this activity is a unit of EXPLORATORY TEACHING, whereby some of the senior students in the FTA assist the regular teachers in the lower grades and are able to earn a credit per semester. It is sincerely hoped that this activity will be a continuing success for years to come and contribute substantially to the teaching profession for students of Rossville High School who participate.

Nine members were added to the LATIN CLUB this year at the initiation. The slaves provided the entertainment by performing skits ranging from a Roman wedding to the mythical torture of Tantalus.

There was also a Latin Club Banquet. The theme was carried out by different center-pieces on each table. The highlight of the evening was the slave sale. Each slave hoped to bring a high price and get a good master.

In addition to this, attending theatrical productions at Purdue University, and sponsoring skits at various meetings and gatherings locally are aimed to broaden the members acquaintance with drama. This action and exciting participation promises enjoyable and profitable learning experiences to the budding Thespians of the club.

with Enthusiastic Cheers

Varsity Cheerleaders for the year were: Kris Beard, Karen Snyder, Becky Dyer, and Patty Wolf.

The Pep Club of 120 loyal boosters added zest and color at games while noisily cheering the "Hornets" on to victory. The Club's girl members wore white poor-boy sweaters and red gloves; boys wore white shirts. We held practice sections every Friday. Also we sponsored various money-making projects, and we honored the parents of the Senior ball players and cheer leaders.

All for Rossville stand up and "HOLLAR"!

The CLASS OF '67 through these last seven years has been bound closer together through many common experiences, interests, and a common goal--GRADUATION!

As a class we have traveled together on several memorable trips. In Indianapolis we toured the Children's Museum, Allison's, Police Administration, and went to see a cinerama. For a change of scenery we went to Kokomo to visit the Chrysler plant and to Bunker Hill Air Force Base. During our Senior year we visited the Indiana State Legislature, took a Senior trip, and enjoyed the Jr.-Sr. Prom.

Our class colors are sapphire and ice blue. Our class flower is the white rose. Fifty-eight diplomas were awarded at commencement with Phil N. Eskew, Commissioner of the I.H.S.A.A., giving the commencement address.

Graduation opens the door to our future, as we step across the threshold with our high school education completed. Some of us plan to attend college, others will secure jobs. But no matter where we go or what we do, we will never forget our Ross-ville High School Days.

Grade School Janitor and Cooks

Janitor: Art McGill.

Cooks: Leona Conatser, Phyllis Kamstra, and Pauline Mosson.

As we bring to a close the 1967 LARS, it appears obvious that such a record cannot be assembled without a great deal of help from many people in addition to the members of the staff. It is to these helpful people, within the school and without, that we would like to express our appreciation. If our published efforts will in only a little way help any one of you to bring back exciting memories of exciting times in the life at Rossville's school, we, the editors and the staff, will be satisfied.

Sincerely,
Jan Emens
Karen Metzger
